“ The hardest thing I have ever done was say goodbye to my mother.

She was my teacher, and my friend. I will miss her laugh, and her appreciation of the smallest things.

A cup of coffee at a cafe, scratch tickets, garage sales, a new recipe, or gardening in my backyard.

Mama saw the world in a special way and she could take you there. She had endless stories and fables.

She always told me to be STRONG, and always was herself.

Mom could always sense my state of mind and get me to talk about it. She would light her cigarette and give me her answers or advice on an exhale.

She grew up travelling everywhere with her family and told me she did not enjoy leaving her home because of it.

Eventually, I got her to visit us in North Carolina and then Boston.

She flew to see us, even though she was unable to read. She was bold, proud and I will forever miss her love, her vibrance, her cooking and the ability to hug her.
